Sally's Personal Journey

You might think that some people are born with confidence, but until you actually connect with your Higher Self, your confidence will never emanate from the inside out, and you'll just be faking it. That takes a level of commitment, consciousness, and awareness that only when you know the correct course of action, can you truly manifest and attract what you truly desire.

Sally K. O'Brien knows this first hand. At fifteen, she rushed home from school, to excitedly tell her mother she wanted to be an English teacher just like her teacher she so admired. She later fulfilled that dream and not only graduated from the University of Wichita with a teaching certificate, she also continued her exploration in serving and teaching by becoming one of the first pioneer Peace Corps volunteers. She served in the Peace Corps in the Philippine Islands, has lived in four countries, and traveled in 30 countries.

These cross-cultural experiences have made her aware that the human spirit is not defined by a geographic location. Every human soul has a true authentic self waiting to emerge and shine from within. This knowledge has defined and shaped Sally's life journey

Guided by her inner compass, Sally's travels and adventures lead her to the Big Island of Hawaii where she lived for eight years, and she experienced a tremendous amount of awakening of her own healing powers. Intrigued by what she was experiencing, she began an extensive study of Ho'opono Pono, ancient Hawaiian spirituality.

Today, Sally combines the healing practices of Ho'opono Pono, Reiki, various other modalities, and her own gifts and abilities along with over 30 years of expertise as a life coach, teacher, and presentation skills expert to show people how to master the inner and outer game of exuding confidence from your true authentic self.
